Texas flora and fauna adorn the hand-painted Fromental silk wallcovering in the living room of a Houston home decorated by Celerie Kemble and Lindsey Herod. The room's textiles, from the armchairs' Brunswig & Fils upholstery to the Lee Jofa stripe on the pillows and curtains, play off the palette of the botanical pattern. The 1950s coffee table is Italian, and the bird side table is by Kemble for Maitland-Smith.

With bright green lacquered walls—matched to a Pantone chip by Fine Paints of Europe—and a custom Langham & Fine rug patterned like formal garden hedges, the family room takes on the freshness of an outdoor space. Back-to-back sofas in an ivory Cowtan & Tout fabric create two zones within the expansive room. The custom ottoman is in a Highland Court fabric. A pair of turquoise lamps from 1stdibs were fitted with custom shades. A Hunt Slonem painting hangs over the 17th-century mantel from Chateau Domingue. OPPOSITE: A 1958 painting by Swedish artist Ann-Marie Ekblom adorns the bookcase.
